NORTH EAST CORNER

Last week Catherine Machin of Mannville visited at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Bill Walker. Mrs. Ailie Patterson's house has been getting an exterior paint job from her two young city visitors Brue and Robert McIntosh and daughter Lois who was home for the weekend. On Friday afternoon the Allan Taylor home was the scene of a lovely shower for Mrs. Ken Oldham (Elaine Laycock) recently wed. Mrs. Mel Salisbury of Edmonton visited with the Jack Savards at the weekend. Violet and Gordie returned to the city with her. Sunday visitors at the B. Walker home were Mr. and Mrs. Horace Smith and children. Lynn has remained for a few days' visit. Mr. Danny Van Hyfte has been transferred to the branch of the Bank of Montreal at Delburne and leaves the middle of this week. Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cook and Gary drove up to Cold Lake on Tuesday to bring Joyce home for a few days. Misses Pamela and Marlene Jones have returned from a 3-week visit with relatives in the city. Their grandparents brought them home on Sunday. A quonset type cattle shed has recently taken shape on the H. Oldham farm. Neighborhood men sweated it out pouring cement on one of our hottest days, and when the second "bee" was due, we had one of our coolest days. Such is our changeable weather. Master Bob, Dean of Calgary was a recent visitor at the W. Parson home. Now he and Jimmy have gone to spend some time at Seba Beach.

Life expectancy for women in Canada is 73 years; for men it is 68 years.

Weekly Inspirational Corner

(Sponsored by an Irma Times reader)

Then said Jesus unto His disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.

For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it.

For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

For the Son of man shall come in the glory of His Father with His angels; and then He shall reward every man according to his works. —Matt. 16:24-27.

Protect That Hay

Feed is not going to be abundant this winter, particularly good hay. A lot of hay was baled in good condition but is still lying in the field in the bale. It is better in the stack and better still if the stack is under a roof of some sort. Covering feed stacks with sheets of plastic will give good protection against rain at a very reasonable cost.

Perennial Weeds

From now until freeze-up is an important time in control of weeds such as Toad Flax, Leafy Spurge, Thistle and Quack Grass. Cultivation, if they are in summerfallow, will prevent the strengthening of the roots. Use of chemicals, 2,4-D or soil sterilants, where recommended as for thistles, Toad Flax and Leafy Spurge, is very effective at this time. If the weeds are in crop land, be careful not to spread seed around with harvesting equipment. One way to prevent spreading is to mow weed patches. This also marks the patches so that they are easy to find to cultivate or use chemical on.

Trees

It is time to get your application in if you want trees for planting next spring. If you want to plant trees next spring the land must be summerfallowed this year. Trees available are Colorado Spruce, White Spruce, Lodge Pole Pine, Scotch Pine, Siberian Larch, Manitoba Maple, American Elm, Manchurian Elm, Common Lilac, Tartarian Honeysuckle, Caragana, Willow. Remember to summerfallow a big enough area for the trees you want. Roadside shelter and snow traps should be back about one hundred and twenty-five feet from the shelter of the road.

"Mysterious Travels of An Irma Times" Is Unveiled

This letter from Roy Latner of C. W. Latner and Sons, Machine Builders and Designers, Kitchener, Ont., formerly of Irma, explains about the mysterious travels of an Irma Times as told in our July 24th issue. Many thanks, Roy. July 30, 1959.

The Editor, Irma Times, Irma, Alberta. Dear Sir:

We are writing you in regard to the item appearing in your paper of July 24th. We think we could give you some light on the subject in question.

Our shop makes stock parts for Canadian shops and also some are taken to Buffalo, N.Y. Your paper is of interest to our shop because the boys, Harry, Bill, and Roy were born in Alberta and have returned several times, and wish to keep in touch, so to speak, with their western friends.

The paper apparently was left at the shop and parts were wrapped in it and sent to Buffalo. The parts must not have been unwrapped thru shipment from there to California and even up to Dundas, Ontario.

We found this most interesting and certainly appreciated your comment in your paper.

The best to all in Irma and hoping to visit there again shortly, I am

Sincerely yours, Roy Latner.

The results of the games were as follows:

HARDBALL—Marsden from Edgerton; Viking from Galahad; Marsden from Viking.

FASTBALL—Irma from Wainwright; Triangle Tigers from Fabyan; Roseberry from Sedgewick; Valley from Army Camp; Triangle Tigers from Irma; Roseberry from Valley; Roseberry from Triangle Tigers.

The Gordon Royal Commission forecasts oil and gas future

By CARL O. NICKLE
Publisher of the "Daily Oil Bulletin", Calgary, Alta.

Many Canadians are fascinated when they look over the vast changes that have been made in Western Canada the past dozen years, because of major discoveries and development of certain of our nation's richest resources, the hydrocarbons known as petroleum and natural gas. But even more fascinating is what lies ahead for Canada because of these resources, provided we maintain the kind of economic and political climate that encourages men to turn dreams into realities.

What can lie ahead for our country because of its black gold and gas? was outlined two years ago by the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects headed by Walter L. Gordon, in its detailed forecast of the Canada of 1980. The Gordon Commission—not to be confused with a more recent Royal Commission on Energy headed by a chairman of somewhat similar name, Henry Borden—made a careful study of many phases of the national economy and national resources, and was particularly impressed with the potential of our oil and gas.

The Gordon Commission rates oil and gas among "the most important factors in the overall economy" and said "it is clear that Canada's future economic development will depend to an increasing extent upon its resources of these fuels." It envisaged an industry that by 1980 could be producing some 1.1 billion barrels of petroleum and 3,000 billion cubic feet of natural gas yearly, plus huge quantities of such gas by-products as sulphur, propane and butane as raw materials for petrochemical and other great industries across the nation.

This could be an oil and gas industry in Western Canada 10 times the size of that today, producing these products in volume one-third greater than "self-sufficiency" for the greatly expanded Canada of 1980. It could be capable of providing Canada with a "net export surplus in oil and gas alone exceeding One Billion Dollars yearly," contrasted with the current

"net export deficit" in these products of over 300 Million Dollars yearly.

These are "heady" figures, but let's go further. While Gordon doesn't spell it out in such precise terms, I can envisage our oil and gas resources supporting, by 1980, directly and indirectly, upwards of Three Million people in the expanded Canada of that time; producing raw materials with a gross worth exceeding Three Billion dollars yearly, and finished products of far greater value; generating a market for some Two Billion dollars yearly in industry needs and consumer goods produced by a host of other industries across the nation; and contributing directly and indirectly over One Billion dollars yearly to Federal, Provincial and Municipal Treasuries in Canada. The estimate of revenues to public tills includes royalties and other fees on oil and gas properties; together with income and property taxes. It does not include the huge "gasoline taxes" which absorb over one-quarter of every dollar we Canadians pay for motor fuel.

The figures show clearly how every Canadian—regardless of his or her occupation or location across the nation—has a mighty big stake in the oil and gas resources with which our West is blessed.

Woman's Way

MADELEINE
LEVASON

LAKEHEAD SURPRISE
Canada is full of surprises even to those who think they know this country well. Each surprise makes us realize how big a chunk of the world we claim and how different each section is from another.

Since the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway, we have been hearing a lot about the "heart of the continent." Until recently this phrase would have brought to my mind a picture of giant grain elevators hugging the rocky head of vast Lake Superior. It was a picture glimpsed many times from trans-continental trains or over the wing tips of planes. I now know the view from the train is Premier "the" and from on high the picture is flattened out.

The lakehead presents an astonishing panorama. The magnificent sweep of Thunder Bay and the peculiar rocky hills around it, reduce the twin cities, their elevators and their tremendous log booms, to toy-like proportions. Across the expanse of water, the unbelievable giant of Thunder Bay sleeps majestically. At least a mile long, this rocky causeway looks exactly like a giant in repose.

Despite the modern twin cities with their bustling ports and the countless summer cottages which hide among the pines for miles around the bay, the view makes one feel like an explorer. You almost expect to see the canoes of voyageurs and fur traders instead of modern steamships.

The ships are a favorite topic of conversation at the lakehead this summer, where everyone is excited about the "salties," the oceangoing ships that have come through the seaway from Montreal. The ships attract curious crowds and their crews are being lionized.

Residents of the lakehead twin cities are fiercely proud of their scenery, and of the forest and mineral wealth of the wilderness around them. They feel they will bring a new era of prosperity to their "heart of the continent."

I suspect, too, they are a bit tired of people who have passed by for so many years and will welcome a chance to "surprise" more visitors.

CURIOSITY KILLED THE CAT

The inquiring minds of children may improve their education but unless the child receives some help in his search for knowledge, trouble may ensue. The principles of firing missiles, setting off explosives, starting a car, and a few other bits of dangerous knowledge can lead youngsters to experiments that can have disastrous results. Adults who handle explosives, ammunition or other dangerous material should be sure that these articles are safely stored away when not in actual use, away from exploring juveniles.

Finest scenery anywhere, yet residents own no land

THE TIMES, Wetaskiwin, Alta.
Three Canadian towns are unique. They lie on some of the finest scenery of the country, yet residents own no land. They are the communities in Banff, Jasper and Waterton Lakes National Parks, which are administered directly by the federal government through the national parks branch of the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources. Problems of local government in these centres will be examined this summer by a team of specialists from the Institute of Local Government of Queen's University, Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton announced. These communities are not "towns" in the normal sense. Mr. Hamilton explained. They are part of the national parks, and it is essential that their development and activities fit the purposes for which the parks themselves were established. No local government. In these communities there is no local government and, except for school purposes, there is no local taxation, although residents pay charges for local services and fees for land rental and business licenses. In some parks, advisory committees and chambers of commerce have been formed locally to present views and recommendations to the parks administration. In recent years, some residents have come to feel that the communities should play a larger part in the administration of their local affairs. Since land in the parks is leased from the federal government for varying terms, business men are also anxious to have maximum security of tenure for their undertakings.

Under the leadership of Professor K. G. Crawford, director of the Institute of local government, the team will study these and related local questions and make recommendations to Resources Minister Hamilton on possible changes which might be desirable to meet changing conditions in these popular national parks.

Announces recipient of first Queen Elizabeth II scholarship

Julian Orest Michayluk, formerly of Kryder, will receive the first Queen Elizabeth II scholarship for graduate studies in education, Premier T. C. Douglas has announced.

The $1,200 scholarship is a gift to the Queen from the province of Saskatchewan and will be presented to Her Majesty during her visit to Regina on July 23rd. She will then make the first award to Mr. Michayluk. Born in Kryder, Mr. Michayluk graduated from the Kryder high school, attended Teachers College in Saskatoon, and from 1952 to 1956 continued his studies while teaching in the Blaine Lake school unit. He then enrolled in the college of education at the University of Saskatchewan and graduated in 1958 with the degree of Bachelor of Education with distinction. For the past year he has been on the staff of the North Battleford Collegiate Institute.

Under the terms of the scholarship, Mr. Michayluk will carry on graduate studies in education at the University of Saskatchewan, working toward the degree of Master of Education.

The Queen Elizabeth II scholarship will be awarded annually and normally will be tenable at the University of Saskatchewan. Successful candidates will be eligible to apply for a second award.

New mental clinic for P.A.

THE SUN, Swift Current, Sask.
J. Walter Erb, minister of public health, has announced that a full-time mental health clinic was opened in Prince Albert, July 20.

It is the third such clinic to be opened in Saskatchewan in the past five years and brings the total number in the province to five. The others are located in Saskatoon, Regina, Moose Jaw and Swift Current.

The clinic will provide services to children and adults suffering from emotional and mental illness. These services will include consultation services to the general practitioners, out-patient treatment where required, rehabilitation services, and mental health promotion.

A referral from the family doctor is required, except for persons who are under the care of the department of social welfare and rehabilitation.

Ignorance is one thing that costs more than an education.

Festival Exhibitions at Sask. House

Photos and historical exhibits have been arriving at Saskatchewan House during the last week for display in the "Peoples of the Province Exhibition," which is one of the exhibitions on show at Saskatchewan House Summer Festival during the next three weeks.

The "Peoples of the Province Exhibition" is a mosaic of Saskatchewan life showing historical photographs, historical exhibits, photographs of people at work in the province, Saskatchewan scenes, and many other interesting items of ethnic groups in Saskatchewan and many other fascinating items.

Among the other exhibitions at Saskatchewan House during Festival time will be a loan of paintings by Saskatchewan artists, coming from several collections in the province and from the studios of individual artists. This exhibition numbers nearly 30 interesting paintings by artists who have lived and worked in the province.

A loan exhibition of drawings of people and events in the area around Batoche, main site of the Riel Rebellion, will also be on display. This exhibition contains not only drawings but also the original fiddle which belonged to Louis Riel, and many interesting historical items connected with the Rebellion.

All the above exhibitions will be open for the first time after the Opening Ceremony of the Festival on Friday, July 17th at 8:30 p.m. Admission to all the exhibitions is free. They will be open every day from 10:00 in the morning until 8:30 in the evening.

Luxury cruise in Fall

Two unusual opportunities to enjoy the perfect luxury of the famed world cruise liner Caronia on a trip to Europe at regular transatlantic rates will be offered by the Cunard Line this fall.

The completely air-conditioned Caronia will sail from New York August 21 and September 10 for Havre and Southampton. When not cruising, the green-hulled Caronia is operated on the Atlantic service with accommodation for first and cabin class passengers.

A favorite vessel of long cruise devotees, the Caronia has unusually broad decks for promenade and sports. All her staterooms have a private bath or shower and a bedside telephone. Her two restaurants, the Balmoral and the Sandringham are among the most famous in the world—afloat or ashore. The Caronia has an open-air swimming pool and 13 public rooms. These last include a Verandah Cafe, theatre, observation lounge, two garden lounges, smoking rooms and a fully-equipped gymnasium. Together these provide the perfect setting for relaxation, enjoyment and the unsurpassed graciousness of life aboard a big Cunarder.

CANDY AT MEAL TIME
It is better for dental health if candies and sweet cakes are eaten at a meal rather than between meals. After eating, the teeth should be well brushed to remove food particles that could otherwise form destructive acids.
